Administrative History of First Jersey National Bank

The bank that became known as First Jersey National Bank opened its doors in April of 1864 as The First National Bank of Jersey City (FNBJC). Founded by associates of the Mechanics and Traders Bank, the bank opened with $200,000 in capital assets. By the end of 1865, the bank's capital had grown to $400,000.

The bank grew steadily through the close of the 19th Century, and expanded considerably in the 1920s. The cornerstone for a new 10-story building in Exchange Place was laid in 1920. In 1927, FNBJC became the first national bank in the country to receive permission to operate branches, and it opened two before the end of the year. 1928 saw the establishment of the Trust Custody Division for the transfer of stocks. In 1929, the bank began acquiring other banks, completing its first merger with the purchase of the Lincoln Trust Company.

FNBJC survived and grew during the Depression of the 1930s, with assets increasing from $25 million in 1928 to $51 million in 1938. The bank continued to expand its services in the 1940s, offering new programs like Christmas Clubs and Thrifti-Check Accounts, both designed for individuals and families with moderate incomes. In the 1950s, mutual funds became widely accessible to small investors for the first time, and FNBJC capitalized on this new trend with the opening of its Mutual Fund Service Group in 1956. The 1950s also saw FNBJC turn towards automation, with the installation of electronic data processing equipment in 1959. This early investment in technology established FNBJC as a leader in automation, and gave it a leg up on its competitor banks for decades to come.

In 1967, Thomas J. Stanton, Jr. took over as Chief Executive officer of FNBJC, a position he would hold until 1990. Under Stanton's leadership, the bank continued to grow and diversify. In recognition of this growth, in 1969 the bank changed its name to First Jersey National Bank (FJNB). The name change was meant to reflect the bank's changing scope and reach. In 1969, the bank operated not only in Jersey City, but also in Hudson County, adjacent counties in New Jersey, and the Financial District of New York City. Taking "Jersey City" out of the bank's name highlighted this growth. In addition to the new name, the bank also took on a new structure, with the formation in 1969 of the holding company, First Jersey National Corporation. FJNB became a wholly-owned subsidiary of the corporation.

Stanton, himself a native of Jersey City, championed the city's waterfront. In 1969 FJNB's new $5 million administrative facility opened at Exchange Place, a blighted neighborhood on the Hudson River waterfront. The building was meant to show FJNB's commitment to the city's revitalization and encourage further development of the area. Some years after the opening of the building in 1969, plans were announced for a 1986 opening of an even larger, 30-story building at Exchange Place. When built, it was the tallest building in New Jersey. Numerous other buildings were financed and built along the Hudson, and FJNB was involved with many of them as well.

In the 1980s FJNB began an aggressive program of acquisition, purchasing 14 banks between 1980 and 1987. By 1987, the bank had some 120 branches, $4.5 billion in assets, and 4000 employees. It was one of the largest banks in New Jersey, and was ranked the 3rd in the nation for mutual funds. In 1988, NatWest, the American subsidiary of the National Westminster Banking Corporation, purchased FJNB for $82 a share, or $820 million. Now known as National Westminster Bank NJ, the bank sold a number of its wholesale securities processing businesses to focus on its more traditional services. NatWest was bought for $3.26 billion by FleetFinancial Group in 1996. Fleet was in turn bought by Bank of America in 2004.

Scope and Content Note

The records of the First Jersey National Bank Papers collection date from 1920 to 1990, with the bulk of the papers from the years of Thomas J. Stanton's reign as CEO: 1967-1990. Records are arranged into 11 series: Area Historical Documents, Community Outreach, First Jersey People, Misc. Banking Documents, Papers of the First Holding Company, Predecessor Banks, Publicity and Publications, Thomas J. Stanton, Jr., Negatives, Photographs, and Slides. Series are divided into text and photographic (photographs, negatives, slides) materials, and each division is arranged alphabetically. Within series, folders are arranged numerically and then alphabetically. Folder contents are arranged chronologically, with some undated photographic materials arranged with similar items. The collection also contains two boxes of large format materials, the contents of which fit with the series of the regular materials of the collection.

Records in this collection come in several formats, including text, photographs, negatives, slides, scrapbooks and display boards. The collection consists primarily of equal parts text-based materials and photographic materials. Photographs and negatives make up the majority of the photographic materials, and the text-based documents in the collection contain significant numbers of reports, minutes, bank publications, contracts and agreements, and clippings.

The collection has strong coverage of the bank's community outreach, as well as people within the bank's employee and leadership ranks. Thomas J. Stanton, CEO from 1967-1990, receives especially extensive coverage. The Papers of the First Holding Company and those of Bergen Trust Company, later acquired by FJNB, also make up a significant portion of the collection. The collection is by no means comprehensive, however. There are many financial reports and ledgers from the first half of the 20th Century, but almost none from the 2nd half. Bank publications like annual reports and newsletters appear only sporadically. Almost no photographs appear before the 1960s. There is an extensive collection of records on Thomas J. Stanton, but none for any CEO before him.

Provenance Note

The First Jersey National Bank Papers were compiled by unknown individuals over time within the bank. In the early to mid 2000s, the building that housed these papers was vacated, and shortly before the papers were to be discarded in the move, a staff member of the bank contacted the archivist at the New Jersey Room in the Jersey City Free Public Library. The archivist was invited to come and take whatever materials she thought would be useful for archival purposes. Working against the clock, the archivist took relevant materials from the bank's collection but was not able to preserve original order in anything beyond a number of folders, in light of the fact that materials were already scattered haphazardly in anticipation of disposal.

Arrangement Note

The records in this collection range from 1920 to 1990, with the bulk of the materials being from 1967-1988, roughly the tenure of Thomas J. Stanton, Jr. as CEO. The collection is organized into 11 series, with text-based series arranged alphabetically at the head of the collection. Following these text-based series, photographic series are arranged alphabetically by format – negatives, photographs, then slides. This arrangement was put in place in order to keep images and papers distinct from one another. The series of the text-based materials often mirror the sub-series of the image-based materials. Within each series, sub-series and folders are arranged numerically and then alphabetically. Within the folders of text-based series, documents are arranged chronologically. Folders of images group documents together chronologically when images are dated, otherwise group related documents together. Four boxes of large format materials are also included in the collection. The boxes are arranged in alphabetical order, and materials within are arranged chronologically when appropriate.

Series Notes

I. Area Historical Documents, 1920-1978 (3 folders)

Folders are arranged alphabetically.

All documents within the folders of this series are arranged chronologically. Banking history documents deal with the origin and setup of the Northern New Jersey Clearing House Association. Other area history documents include a poem on the Morris Canal, a report on the potential growth of Jersey City, and analysis of the future of Jersey City's tax base.

II. Community Outreach, 1965-1988 (3 folders)

Folders are arranged alphabetically, with miscellaneous at series' end.

All documents within the folders of this series are arranged chronologically. The First Jersey Photo Contest folder covers the names of the finalists in the bank's 1977 community photo contest. The University Club Dinner folder documents the planning of a bank-sponsored dinner for prominent businesses and potential customers, and includes lists of influential companies (Box 1 Folder 5). The Misc. folder documents the bank's contributions to the Liberty State Science Center, a giveaway contest for customers, and the passing through of a replica of the Statue of Liberty's torch.

III. First Jersey People, 1922-1988 (bulk 1967-1988) (4 folders)

Folders are arranged alphabetically.

All documents within the folders of this series are arranged chronologically. Information on the Board of Directors consists mainly of curriculum vitae and biographies distributed at the time of individuals' appointment to the Board. The Misc. folder contains a caption to a photograph (photograph stored in Box 1 Folder 8) which provides information on the bank's top leadership. Personnel folders contain payroll sheets and newspaper clippings on social events held for staff.

IV. Misc. Banking Documents, 1930-1966 (3 folders)

Folders are arranged alphabetically.

Documents in this series consist of a list of records to be transferred from the Greenville to Old Bergen branch, customer passbooks from 1930, and a partially used Thriftway Club booklet from 1930.

V. Papers of the First Holding Company, 1927-1951 (16 folders)

Folders are arranged numerically, then alphabetically, with miscellaneous at series' end.

All documents within the folders of this series are arranged chronologically. Documents of the First Holding Company, First Jersey National Bank's holding company, cover a wide range of financial dealings within the bank. They include 5 folders (Box 1 Folder 14-18) on two different sales of the First Jersey National Bank's Exchange Place Building. The documents linked to the second sale, in 1951, cover agreements and logistics as well as the tax difficulties that followed the sale. Correspondence covers routine personnel matters and difficulties, as well as discussions of stock value and other financial matters of the bank. Miscellaneous financial reports consist primarily of audits, systems of accounts and balance sheets. General miscellaneous documents include insurance information and tax documents including a petition of appeal in 1927 (Box 1 Folder 28). Reports on examination reveal the bank's financial health over a period of decades, most notably during the early years of the Great Depression of the 1930s.

VI. Predecessor Banks, 1923-1962 (bulk 1955-1962) (14 folders)

The folders in this series are arranged alphabetically, with miscellaneous at series' end.

All documents within the folders of this series are arranged chronologically. The series mainly consists of documents relating to the Bergen Trust Company. Within this subgroup, documents can be broken up into three categories: meeting minutes, the renovation of the branch in the late 1950s and the merger with First Jersey National Bank in 1962. Merger documents include correspondence between First Jersey and Bergen, as well as inter-First Jersey discussions of what to do with Bergen once it has been acquired. The correspondence file includes a brief mention of Ned Feldman, a senior executive of Bergen. Feldman's Jewish ethnicity is discussed (Box 1 Folder 33). Renovation documents include solicitations and correspondence from vendors and updates from the Bank Building Corporation, Bergen's lead contractor for the work. Franklin National Bank documents consist of shareholder's meeting minutes over a period of decades, as well as articles of association and applications for organization.

VII. Publicity and Publications, 1934-1988 (bulk 1960-1988) (7 folders)

The folders in this series are arranged alphabetically, with miscellaneous at series' end.

All documents within the folders of this series are arranged chronologically. Bank Publications includes annual reports, the first issue of a staff newsletter, and two issues of First Jersey News, the bank's official internal publication. The First Jersey News issues deal primarily with the opening of the new administrative headquarters at Exchange Place (Box 1 Folder 45). Clippings include articles on the groundbreaking and construction of the Exchange Place building, and assorted newspaper articles from 1987 and 1988, mainly dealing with the eventual merger of First Jersey National Bank with NatWest.

VIII. Thomas J. Stanton Jr., 1967-1988 (8 folders)

Folders in this series are arranged numerically, then alphabetically, with miscellaneous at series' end.

Documents within each folder are arranged chronologically. The 1969 Exchange Place folder contains articles Stanton's involvement with the construction and completion of the building. The Awards folder contains articles and press releases from Stanton's various awards, including, his Fund for Educational Advancement award and the Governor's Award. It also includes an article on his honorary degree from St. Peter's College, and the article includes a photo and mention of Vince Lombardi (Box 2 Folder 2). Bio/Life documents cover his personal life as well as rise in the ranks at First Jersey National Bank. The Community Outreach folders mainly consist of press releases and publicity for Stanton's various community projects. Community outreach projects in the Misc. folder include his heading of a 1967 urban panel, his donation to the campaign to save the Statue of Liberty, and his work with the low-income segment of the population. The Proposed Exchange Place Building folder contains press on his plans for a 30-story building on Jersey City's waterfront in the 1980s. Misc. documents include information on the bank's name change in 1968, and articles on Stanton's role in the bank's expansion.

IX. Negatives, 1976-1988 (18 folders)

Folders in this series are arranged in alphabetical, then chronological order.

Within each folder, documents have been kept in original order (negatives will likely be organized more specifically by topic at a later date). The Branch Interior folder consists of large format negatives of the interior of an unknown branch. The Insider negatives are images of selected personnel for profile in the publication Insider. Remaining negatives are labeled Misc. and sorted by year when possible. They cover a wide range of bank activities including community events, promotional items, meetings and conferences, interaction with customers and personnel portraits.

X. Photographs, 1946-1988 (bulk 1967-1988) (39 folders)

Folders in this series are arranged in alphabetical order, with miscellaneous at sub-series or series' end.

Within each folder, documents are grouped together with others of the same topic/event. When photos of individuals have names, as do the Board of Directors and Leadership photos, documents within the folder are arranged in alphabetical order. Documents are divided into a number of large categories. The Branches and Buildings sub-series covers photographs of (unspecified) branches of First Jersey National Bank, from inside and outside, as well as in conceptual form and under construction. One folder, Other Banks (Box 2 Folder 33) contains images of other banks, possibly taken in connection with potential mergers. The Branch Openings sub-series includes the Gateway Opening of 1971 as well as the opening celebration of an unknown bank in the 1960s. Community Outreach photographs include the public appearance of Richard Edwin Glover, the 1972 Lombardi Award winner, as well as the contest entries for the 1977 First Jersey Photo Contest. The Events sub-series includes a photo of Senator Bill Bradley at a groundbreaking (Box 2 Folder 46). First Jersey People sub-series contains mostly portraits of individuals. Most Board of Directors and Leadership photographs include identification. Photos of personnel and customers are from numerous branches and years, and have no specified order. The Social Activities folder includes a collection of photographs from a 1946 staff softball game (Box 3 Folder 11). Photos of Thomas J. Stanton, Jr. include a family photo of Stanton and his family, as well as photos of Stanton together with Vince Lombardi (Box 3 Folder 13). Other photos include images of Jersey City and its landmarks, and First Jersey National Bank billboards and advertisements.

XI. Slides, 1970-1988 (3 folders)

Folders in this series are arranged in alphabetical order.

Within each folder, documents are grouped together with others of the same topic. Leadership slides consist of staged photos of the First Jersey National Bank's president and executive leadership. The One-Mile Run slides document the race sponsored by the bank. The World Trade Center slides consist primarily of images of Jersey City and Exchange Place as seen from between the two towers.

Large Format Items (four boxes)

In addition to the 11 series the collection consists of four boxes of large format items, the materials of which fit with numerous series and subseries from throughout the collection. Large format items include a collection of scrapbooks full of newspaper clippings related to the bank; photographs of branches, bank leadership and Jersey City; the complete edition of the newspaper that announced the retirement of Thomas J. Stanton, Jr.; display boards promoting Exchange Place; and bank publications.
